Historical Bibliography as an Essential Source for Historiography. 5th International Conference on European Historical Bibliographies 2013

The fifth International conference of the project "European Historical Bibliographies" was held in Prague in the Villa Lanna on November 7th - 8th, 2013. All the texts of the conference can be found on the website of European historical bibliography, (16.3.2014). Two main objectives of this conference were to discuss the issue of national historical bibliographies in European countries and the importance of bibliography as an information source for historiography. This joint project of cooperation among national historical bibliographies was established in 2007 under the auspices of the Berlin - Brandenburg Academy of Sciences in Berlin. Its aim is to unite the so far diversified national bibliographic projects on a European level and in this way to achieve a more comprehensive searching in these prospectively involved resources and thus promote international comparative historical research. The conference was organised with support of the Ministry of Education, Youth and Sports of the Czech Republic (LM2011018 - Bibliography of the Czech Lands History).

The conference was opened by the director of the Historical Institute Eva Semotanová. She firstly greeted the participants in her introductory speech and then spoke about the importance of bibliography for the historical community. Afterwards, JAROSLAV PÁNEK (Prague) summarized in his methodological paper the importance of bibliography for orientation in the ever growing historiographical production and also appreciated the effort of "European historical bibliographies" to establish a common platform of national bibliographic databases in Europe. The following program was divided into three thematic sections. Session one was entitled "Historical bibliographies and their utilization in scientific research". It was launched by VĀCLAVA HORÁKOVĀ and VĀRA HANELOVĀ (both Prague) presenting their paper "Bibliography of the Czech Lands history. The project of modernization and international cooperation". They summed up the actual outputs of the first two years' work on this project funded by the Ministry of Education, Youth and Sports under the Roadmap Czech Republic "large infrastructures. These outcomes are: the use of new opportunities brought to the bibliographic database thanks to the implementation of international standards (MARC 21) in particular and a new software. Bibliography of the History of the Czech Lands, Data are freely available on-line at (16.3.2014).

After the break, LENE EKLUND-JĀRGENSEN (Copenhagen) from the Royal Library in Copenhagen in her paper "Memoirs and autobiographies on the occupation of Denmark from 1940 to 1945. Danish historical bibliography as an essential information source" addressed options which various Danish bibliographies offer in terms of searching for autobiographies and memoirs for the study of World War II. BERNADETTE CUNNINGHAM (Dublin) gave a brief overview of the history of historical bibliography in divided Ireland, recalled its remarkable personalities and also pointed out the reflection of changing political and cultural circumstances in the bibliographic processing of Irish history. LUDGER SYRÄ (Karlsruhe) from the Landesbibliothek in Karlsruhe introduced individual German provincial bibliographies and demonstrated search options which bring a large amount of diverse information.

The second section was devoted to the history of historical bibliography and its leading figures of the past. BRIGITTE KERIVEN (Paris), an editor of Bibliographie annuelle de l' Histoire de France, spoke about the changing priorities in research focused on the course of the World War II and the anti-fascist resistance movement in France. Her paper was based on the research of bibliographic records in French historical bibliography between 1964-2010. MARIE MAKARIUSOVÄ (Prague) in her paper "The founders of Czech historical bibliography. ÄenÄk ZÄbrt, Josef PekaÄ, Josef Kazimour, Josef Klik and Stanislava JonÄ;ÄovÄ; - HÄ;jkovÄ;" introduced to the audience these most significant personalities. HELMUT TEUFEL (Brno) from the Society for history of the Jews in the Czech Republic spoke in his extensive lecture "Defense of a bibliography of Jewish history in Bohemia, Moravia and Silesia" about genesis and authors of a series of bibliographies on Jewish history in the Czech lands. The session closed with a written contribution by ROBERT LUFT (Munich) from the Collegium Carolinum. In his study "Heinrich Jilek (1902-1986), a librarian and a bibliographer of the Czech lands. To the history of bibliographic work in the 20th century", Robert Luft mapped life and work of this Czech-German bohemist, slavacist, librarian and bibliographer.

The other conference day was dedicated to the third thematic section whose point of interest laid in the use of software applications in historical bibliography with special emphasis on international cooperation. EVA KRAUS (Munich) from the Bavarian State Library and MATTI STÄHR (Berlin) from the Berlin - Brandenburg Academy of Sciences introduced a project heading towards a unified "German Historical Bibliography" in their joint paper. The project's aim is to prepare such platform that would enable to search the most important bibliographic databases for the topics related to German history in Germany. IRENA TUMELYTÄ (Vilnius) from the Lithuanian Historical Institute spoke about Lithuanian cooperation on a joint bibliography which is being created together with the Herder Institute in Marburg. She mainly dealt with differences in bibliographic classification which have their stems in a different approach of both historiographies. WERNER BOSSHARD and NATHALIE VUILLEUMIER (both Berne), representatives of cooperating institutions, demonstrated the use of Swiss historical bibliography for the needs of a historical encyclopedia of Switzerland (Historisches Lexikon der Schweiz).

STEFAN WIEDERKEHR (Berlin) from the Berlin - Brandenburg Academy of Sciences focused in his lecture on the issue of personal authorities, its unification and application in the largest German historical bibliographic database Jahresberichte fÄ¼r deutsche Geschichte. LIBOR Ä IMEK (Prague) from the National Library in Prague delivered a paper on a similar topic. In his contribution he stressed the importance and further development of unification of national name authorities in bibliographic databases, libraries, archives, museums and other heritage institutions. JÄRGEN WARMBRUNN (Marburg) from the Herder Institute in his contribution summed up the past and present of Marburg's ongoing bibliographic project which encompasses the cooperation of national historical bibliographies on a joint database of the history of Central and Eastern Europe.

After lunch, GÄRALD PÄOUX, ISABELLE HAVE-LANGE and CYRIL MATHEVON (all Paris) in their paper "Annual bibliography on French history: Data remodelling as first step towards a comprehensive tool for European historiographies" evaluated the latest trends in French historical bibliography, primarily concerning the computer data processing. The last speakers were JAN LHOTÄK (SuÄ;ice) and JIÄÄ NOVÄK. Their contribution dealt with two closely related topics: firstly, they spoke about bibliographic processing of history of Ä umava/Bohemian Forest and secondly, they discussed general issues of regional bibliography. KRISTINA REX-OVÄ (Prague), a representative of the Bibliographic department of the Historical Institute, evaluated the conference as a whole and closed the session.

Historians and bibliographers from Denmark, France, Ireland, Lithuania, Germany and Switzerland gathered along with many Czech experts from a number of historical institutions and libraries to debate a large scale of themes. This diversity also mirrored in lively and open discussions that followed each block of papers. A deep interest in the issue of combining history, bibliography and data processing was obvious. The organization of the following, already the sixth conference of European historical bibliographies respectively, was promised by the representatives of Switzerland.
